The SCOUT 400 LXF, powered by twin Mercury Verado 600 HP outboards, is an exceptional model in Scout Boats' luxury sport-fishing lineup, offering a perfect blend of high-performance, luxury, and advanced features.

Construction and Design: The boat is built using innovative carbon epoxy construction, featuring Carbon Fiber/E-Glass as the main materials in the Epoxy Infusion process. This construction method enhances the boat's strength, speed, and fuel efficiency. The 400 LXF's design includes a standard hydraulic portside beach platform with synthetic teak, adding to its functionality and aesthetic appeal.

Helm and Electronics: The Helm area is equipped with two Garmin 8616 touchscreens as standard, which can be upgraded to accommodate three screens. The boat utilizes C-Zone digital switching technology, allowing for seamless control of various features, including the electronically actuated SureShade integrated retractable aft awning and articulating rocket launchers. A standard feature is the Seakeeper 3 gyro stabilizer.

Interior and Comfort: Below deck, the SCOUT 400 LXF offers luxurious amenities, including a cabin with a single-burner glass stove cooktop, microwave, 32" LED TV, galley sink, drawer refrigerator, and an enclosed shower and head area. The cabin provides comfortable overnight accommodation with a convertible queen berth.

Performance: With a 12'1" beam and significant headroom, the boat is spacious and designed for both serious fishing and entertaining. The base power configuration includes triple Mercury 350XL Verados, and the model is available in twin, triple, or quad configurations with various power plant options from Mercury and Yamaha.

Additional Features: The boat showcases a unique raised aft-facing lounge seat with an electronically actuated convertible leaning post, adding versatility to its design. This optional feature includes a Kenyon grill, sink, cutting board, ice maker, and tackle drawers.

In summary, the SCOUT 400 LXF represents a harmonious combination of luxury, performance, and innovation, making it a standout model for a wide range of boating activities, from sportfishing to luxurious cruising.
